The Boy Who Lost His Boat

Tom had just finished making a toy boat. He carried it to the river and let out the string tied to it. He admired how smoothly it cut through the water. Suddenly, a strong current took hold. Tom tried to pull his boat back, but the string snapped. He sprinted along the bank to catch it, but soon his boat drifted out of sight. He desperately searched until dark. Unsuccessful, he finally gave up.

Days later as he walked home from school, Tom passed a toy store and a boat caught his eye. He pressed his face against the window for a better look. Sure enough, it was his lost boat. He ran inside and told the manager, "Sir, that's my boat in your window. I made it myself."

The manager replied, "Sorry, son, but someone else brought it in this morning. If you want it, you'll have to buy it." Tom hurried home and counted all of his money; he had just enough. He rushed back to the store and purchased his beloved boat. As he walked home, he held it tightly to his chest and said, "Now you're twice mine. First I made you, and now I bought you."
